An Alarming Trend

"First you take a drink, then the drink takes a drink, then the drink takes you."

F. Scott Fitzgerald (1896 – 1940)

I have been involved in the alcohol industry for three decades now. Throughout my career, I have witnessed trends come in and out of vogue but, in my opinion, a recent swing in the marketplace is cause for concern. Suppliers seem to be rushing to develop products with highly concentrated alcohol (HCA). Top shelf and value brands alike are introducing 100-proof or higher versions of best selling labels. Popularity and availability of traditional HCA products, such as absinthe, are increasing as well.

While 80-proof has been the upper strength for most liquor, there has always been more potent options available. Previously, however, HCA brands have not been top sellers. Everclear, which is 151-proof, now regularly makes it into the "Hot 100" best selling liquors in Iowa.

The rise in popularity of HCA seems to coincide with an increase in alcohol-related incidences. Late last year, a Drake University student was hospitalized after drinking numerous cups of Everclear. His blood alcohol concentration (BAC) was 0.50 – over six times the legal limit – a level that has proven lethal in many cases.

A Daily Iowan investigative report at the University of Iowa found the average range of BAC in students with alcohol-related violations is on the rise, too. Five years ago, the average range was 0.13 to 0.17. Today, that number is double to triple the legal limit for intoxication at an average of 0.18 to 0.25. A corresponding increase in ambulance calls to the downtown Iowa City bar area was reportedly up 37 percent as well.

The Iowa Alcoholic Beverages Commission is interested in reviewing HCA in Iowa. Full strength Everclear, which is 190-proof, is no longer available in the state, but the 151-proof version is, as well as over 30 products 100-proof and above. The discussion needs to focus on all highly concentrated alcohol, not just a single label. Simply put, more is needed than to just clear the air on Everclear.

The Commission and I are open to public suggestions and need to investigate further before taking any action. A forum was held in January at Drake University and public input, which can be submitted on the Division's website at IowaABD.com, is still welcome.

Potential future actions could be as simple as educating the public about the inherent risks associated with consuming HCA or limiting the size selection of HCA brands. More restrictive alternatives would include requiring a lower alcohol content in products or banning HCA all together. The Commission will draw up recommendations based on public input from the website, the forum at Drake University and additional research as to how other states are addressing the issue.

The comments received so far indicate that many citizens believe the abuse related to HCA should rest on the individual. People have a personal liability to use alcohol responsibly or suffer the consequences – even illegal underage drinkers. The other side of that coin examines the damage done to society as a whole by such products. With over 1,300 available products listed in Iowa, the question presented is what purpose does HCA serve other than to get one extremely drunk at a very rapid pace?

While highly concentrated alcohol raises serious concern, I acknowledge that I don't have all the answers. I believe the State, alcohol industry and general public need to openly take on the topic and see where it leads. That dialogue needs to be sooner than later, before the drink takes another victim.

PURCHASING ASSISTANT

What was the best part of working in the Warehouse?

People probably think it's weird, but I really enjoyed the physical part. I was up moving around, slinging boxes and picking bottles all day long. The job was a 10-hour workout! Now I sit at a desk for 8 hours a day and have to workout during my time off. I also liked the relaxed atmosphere out there. I got along really well with a lot of the guys.

Now that you are on the office side, what is your favorite part of your job?

I like dealing with all kinds of people with wildly different personalities. I talk to liquor managers of big box stores and owners of ma and pop stores too. I always have to be on my toes to gauge a person's mood without ever seeing their face. Sometimes people are in a great mood and kid around. Other times people don't have time and are more serious.

What are your job duties as a purchasing assistant?

My first priority is always to take orders from Class E liquor licensees and that's how I spend most of my time. I also spend a lot of time on the computer working on special orders: researching, entering them into the system and placing orders. I am in charge of the monthly mailing of the newsletter and price book for truck mail.

What do you like to do when you're not in the office?

I spend a lot of time riding my horse, Daisy. She's a 5-year-old palomino paint and was a gift from my husband. We live on a 160-acre farm, so we have lots of space to run. I also love to ride my motorcycle. I have a Kawasaki Mean Streak and my husband has a Nomad. We have gone to a lot of bike rallies around the state. It's fun to spend the weekend listening to bands and people watching. I have two teenage sons who I love hanging out with as well. Mark is our family rock star; he plays guitar. Matthew is my mini-me. He rides a dirt bike but we're hoping to get him something a little bigger soon. ■

It all started with just a couple of shelves of vodka. Then like something out of the musical Little Shop of Horrors, the vodka selection in retail shops and state liquor stores across the country began to grow rapidly. As the category exploded, with ever more exotic and pricy brands launching seemingly weekly, more and more shelves were gobbled up by the spirit. Soon a legion of vodkas had taken over prominent real estate in America's already overcrowded stores.

Cosmopolitan Lounge

Story and Photos: Shannon Hagge

Although she may not be serving the cast of Sex and the City on a daily basis, Cosmopolitan Lounge manager Sherry Waner is very familiar with the phrase, "I'll have a cosmo."

The Cosmopolitan Lounge resides inside the posh hotel, Suites of 800 Locust, in downtown Des Moines. Before the property became the sophisticated hotel it is today, it had a varied history. The building was originally constructed in 1912 for the Des Moines Club and hosted spaces for accountants, lawyers, barbers, railroad workers and passersby alike. Eventually the club moved to another downtown location in the 1970s and the Za-Ga-Zig Shriners moved into the building. The Shriners vacated the location in 1987; then the structure sat empty for 11 years. Before the hotel restoration began in 2001, consideration was given to have the building demolished.

The renovations created the 51 suites while preserving the uniqueness of the building exterior. When the Suites of 800 Locust opened its doors in 2001, the Cosmopolitan Lounge was unveiled alongside it. The hotel and bar helped put the wheels in motion to revive the downtown Des Moines after-work and nightlife scenes.

The hotel is no stranger to catering to red-carpet clientele. Guests ranging from presidential candidates, to pop singing sensation Britney Spears and rocker Ozzy Osbourne have all stayed in the suites. Even if you're not a big name headliner, locals can expect to receive the same royal treatment from the staff as the stars receive.

Cosmopolitan Bar

The Cosmopolitan Lounge's atmosphere is warm and inviting and immediately makes guests feel at ease. The décor emulates the dark sophisticated style of the hotel, but with a modern feel. The hustle and bustle of the city quickly melts away as the dark atmosphere surrounds you and relaxing music fills your ears.

Shortly after 5 PM, patrons including downtown workers and residents, corporate travelers, musicians and actors flood into the Cosmopolitan Lounge. Sherry Waner is a skilled manager and bartender and is always eager to please all her guests. Read the reviews about the Cosmopolitan Lounge in Juice, on Metro-mix.com and DesMoines-Nightlife.com and you will see that the greater Des Moines area agrees that Waner and the Lounge are a great combination.

Waner dazzles patrons with an extensive martini menu that offers something for everyone, from sweet desert drinks to dry martinis. For those that prefer something a little different, there is also a rotating, seasonal drink menu and, of course, old favorites are available upon request. The martinis are so exceptional, you will be glad they left the shaker so you can enjoy the drink to the last drop.

If you are looking for more of a fast paced, upbeat crowd, the Lounge features live music every Friday evening, showcasing local talent personally scouted by Waner. The Cosmopolitan Lounge is a great place for a romantic evening with your sweetheart or just to unwind after a tough day at the office. Better yet, it can't be beat for those nights when you and your girlfriends want to pretend you're living the big city life like Carrie, Samantha, Miranda and Charlotte.

ONE EVERYONE NE EVERYONE

Indeed, vodka's demand for shelf space is only rivaled by Americans' unquenchable thirst for the spirit itself. It is no secret that for the last several years sales of vodka have been driving the overall spirits business.

What's helping to keep sales of the spirit healthy is that there's a vodka for every budget. While most of the new vodkas to launch over the last few years have gone after the super- and ultra-premium market, a number of brands have successfully targeted premium and value drinkers.

Vodka isn't just a favorite of consumers but also of large drinks companies. Last year, some of the biggest vodka brands changed hands. . . . But these trophy vodkas aren't just sitting on their laurels. Their new owners expect them to not only make back their purchase price but, of course, also generate new profits.

There remains plenty of stiff competition in the vodka category. Store shelves are now packed with new flavors and brand extensions from numerous well-established brands. While it might seem odd that spirit companies keep introducing more varieties for customers to choose from, this strategy has proven to be quite successful. In fact, according to Jason Daniel, senior brand manager for SKYY, sales of flavored vodkas are growing twice as fast as the sales of unflavored vodka. Indeed, the United States is the world's biggest market for flavored vodka, and a new flavor can really drive sales.

Now the only issue is trying to find room for all these vodkas on your store shelves.

VODKA THE PERFECT MIXER

The subtle, unobtrusive nature of vodka makes it the perfect mixer. In fact vodka is featured in more recipes than any other type of spirit! Be sure to keep your favorite brands on hand for mixing these popular cocktails.

Cosmopolitan

Screwdriver

*1 1/2-2 ounces vodka
Orange juice*

Pour the vodka over fresh ice in a chilled highball (collins) glass. Fill the glass with orange juice and stir.

Vodka and Tonic

*1 1/2-2 ounces vodka
Tonic water
Lime wedge*

Pour the vodka over fresh ice in a chilled highball (collins) glass. Fill the glass with tonic water, and garnish with the lime wedge.

Kamikaze

*1-1 1/2 ounces vodka
1-1 1/2 ounces triple sec
1-1 1/2 ounces lime juice*

Pour all of the ingredients into a chilled shaker half-filled with ice. Shake vigorously and strain into 3 chilled shot glasses.

Salty Dog

Serve this grapefruit-flavored drink in a chilled old-fashioned glass. Rub a lime wedge across the rim of the glass and dip the wet rim into a mixture of salt and sugar.

*2 ounces vodka
3 ounces freshly squeezed grapefruit juice
Lime wedge*

Fill the serving glass one-third full with fresh ice. Pour in the vodka and grapefruit juice and stir gently. Garnish with the lime wedge.

“If you play with fire,
eventually you’re going to get burned”

– Traditional Proverb

Breaking the law is as risky as playing with fire. Even so, there are a few scenarios that pop up that make circumventing the three-tier system for beer very tempting.

I. SCENARIO ONE.

It’s been a busy day at the bar and the unthinkable happens; you’ve run out of your staple light beer before closing time. Rather than disappoint and possibly lose customers for the remainder of the night, you send a staffer out to the nearest 24-hour grocery store to pick up a few cases. Have you done something illegal? The answer is yes.

For beer, there is no legal exception to the three-tier system; it must go from brewer to wholesaler to retailer. Depending on the customer and location, some wholesalers will make a late night delivery, which is your best option for this scenario.

II. SCENARIO TWO.

The economy hasn’t been doing that stellar and people are staying home more, so cash flow at the bar is down. The beer wholesaler requires cash on delivery but you just don’t have the money to pay for your entire week’s order. Can you send someone to the liquor store with a credit card to pick up beer? It may be tempting, but no.

On-premises licensees cannot purchase beer from anyone but a wholesaler. Also, beer must be paid for in full, upon delivery. No line of credit is to be extended from the wholesaler.

III. SCENARIO THREE.

The big box retailer down the road is having a major sale on your top selling beer and it’s cheaper than you can get it from the wholesaler. You know that wholesalers must keep their prices the same for all customers, so the store must be selling the beer as a loss leader.

Can you take advantage of the savings by buying straight from that retailer? Once again, buying beer from anyone other than a wholesaler is illegal.

IV. CONCLUSION.

While getting a better deal can be alluring, especially in today’s economy, licensees must follow the laws and requirements of the three-tier system. Failure to purchase your beer from a wholesaler can result in administrative sanctions. Licensees who have fallen victim to the temptation have received a civil penalty of $1,000 and a seven day suspension. These penalties definitely negate any benefits from circumventing the three-tiers.

Although it’s as tempting to break the rules as it is to play with fire, both will have the same result. Eventually you’re going to get burned.

The holder of a class “C” permit shall be allowed to sell beer to consumers at retail for consumption off the premises... The holder of a class “C” permit or the permittee’s agents or employees shall not sell beer to other retail license or permit holders knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that the beer will be resold in another licensed establishment.
